NEWS FROM THE MISSISSIPPI.

The Failure of the Sunflower Expedition.

Obstructions Encountered in Rolling Fork

History of the Expedition to Young's Point.

The Ram Switzerland but Slightly Injured in Running the Vicksburgh Batteries.

CAIRO, Wednesday, April 1.

News from Vicksburgh and vicinity has been received here up to Thursday night. Although unauthentic, the advices accord with the general public expectation.

Sherman's expedition in the Upper Yazoo had returned without accomplishing its object.

The rebels had so obstructed the channel through which the boats had to pass as to render progress to the river impossible.

CINCINNATI, Wednesday, April 1.

Dispatches received here state that the expedition through Steele's and Black Bayous into the Upper Yazoo is a failure. Admiral Porter succeeded in getting through both bayous with the gunboats, and proceeded 25 or 30 miles further in Deer and Rolling Forks, where he encountered a small force of rebels, who so annoyed him with sharpshooters and obstructions in the channel, that further progress was impossible, without the cooperation of infantry, which came up next day.

The enemy had in the meantime put trees into the stream, making it impassable. They annoyed the gunboats otherwise, and seemed to be gathering in considerable force.

Reinforcements of infantry were marched to the assistance of the gunboats on Monday, and coming up with the beleaguered boats, found them hemmed completely by obstructions in front and rear.

Skirmishing continued all day, when the rebels being reinforced, the gunboats were withdrawn, and commenced to retreat, the whole force having embarked on transports near the head of Black Bayou for their return to Young's Point.

Federal loss 10 or 12 privates killed and wounded, including Mr. SULLIVAN, an engineer, killed by a shell. Rebel loss unknown, but supposed to be considerable.

REPORTS FROM MEMPHIS.

MEMPHIS, Saturday, March 28, } Via CAIRO, Tuesday, March 31. }

A correspondent who left New-Orleans with Gen. PARKE on the 9th of March, has arrived here. He passed Port Hudson on the night of the 14th, with Admiral FARRAGUT. The Hartford and Albatross got through, after enduring opposite bombardment for two hours, and were slightly injured. Some rebel rams attempted to stop the Admiral's progress up the river, but without success, the powerful broadsides from the frigate Hartford being too much for them.

The Federal rams Switzerland and Lancaster ran by the batteries at Vicksburgh on the 25th. The former was but slightly injured. The latter was sunk.

The Tecumseh and Monarch have gone up the Yazoo.

OUR VICKSBURGH CORRESPONDENCE

Reports of the New Expedition to the Yazoo—A Movement of Troops Overland to Yazoo City—The Lake Providence Canal a Success—The Canal Opposite the City—Admiral Farragut &c.

NEAR VICKSBURGH, Miss., Friday, March 20, 1863.

Events of great importance have occurred in this Department during the week past. I have already informed you of the expedition of Admiral FARRAGUT toward Yazoo City, and the havoc which accompanied his Deer Creek and Sunflower River, undertaking a week ago, and of its probable success. At last accounts he was within a short distance of Deer Creek, which he had approached through a series of bayous now rendered navigable by the swollen condition of the streams. It was believed that the gunboats would reach Yazoo City two days ago. In the river are known to be a large fleet of rebel transports, and one or more unarmed ironclads. Gens. GRANT and SHERMAN, with a large body of troops, departed for that part of the country three days ago. They would pass up the Mississippi several miles, where they would disembark, and march overland to Yazoo City. The Engineer brigade of Gen. BRAGG are already there, having come down from Lake Providence, and are understood to be constructing a road for the passage of the troops. The high stage of the water will materially interfere with the marching of the troops. Important consequences depend upon the successful accomplishment of the expedition, as it will give us control of the navigation to Vicksburgh, and may involve the possession by our troops of the railroad running eastward from Vicksburgh to Jackson, Montgomery, Savannah and Richmond.

The cut-off at Lake Providence, through Bayou Macon into the Red River, is a success. I saw one of the officers of a gunboat who had just returned from that expedition three days ago. A large number of plantations had been entirely flooded by opening this cut-off, and a stern-wheel steamer had been launched on the lake. This will enable our transports to pass around that way undisturbed by existing rebel obstructions in the Mississippi. There are one or two places like the junction of the Tensaw, where rebel batteries may be attempted, but a vigilant watch will prevent their erection. Considerable sickness existed among our troops and crews of vessels operating in that direction.

ARRIVAL OF ADMIRAL FARRAGUT'S SHIPS BELOW VICKSBURGH.

Early on Thursday (yesterday) morning, heavy and continuous firing was heard down the river, which lasted about two hours. The impression prevailed here that a naval engagement was going on below. During the day, a contraband arrived from near Port Hudson, at the headquarters of Gen. BANKS, who reported that three of the Union gunboats, belonging to Admiral FARRAGUT's fleet, had attempted to pass the batteries at Port Hudson, four days previously—that is, about the 16th—and two of them succeeded in doing so. The third was said to have been sunk. During the day and night, further rumors of a vague character prevailed to the same effect. Last evening, our pickets reported signals from Union vessels below, near Warrenton, and to-day the Secretary of Admiral FARRAGUT came up by land on the Louisiana side, to the flagship of Admiral PORTER, bringing the welcome intelligence that three of the fleet had actually reached a point below Warrenton. The Mississippi, one of the oldest as well as the most efficient war-steamers in the squadron, was destroyed by fire.

The arrival of these vessels will, no doubt, hasten the land and naval attack upon Vicksburgh, and thus bring the campaign in the Mississippi to a favorable termination, before the heat of Summer, with its attendant lassitude, disease and discouragement, postpone affairs into the Fall.

FROM THE LOWER MISSISSIPPI.

The Movements Against Port Hudson.

Correspondence of the Philadelphia Inquirer.

BATON ROUGE, LA., Saturday, March 21.

The most important advance movement that has been made since the return of the army from the rebel intrenchments at Port Hudson, was by the brigade commanded by Col. DUNBAR. The Colonel left this place last Wednesday night, with a strong force of infantry, one battery and one company of cavalry. The troops were taken up the river on the steam-transports Morning Light, Empire Parish, St. Maurice and Sallie Robinson. It was not known until a late hour that Gen. BANKS was to accompany the expedition, but such proving to be the case, considerable importance was attached to the movement.

THE PLAN OF THE EXPEDITION KNOWN.

Strange as it may seem, before either of the above-named boats had left their wharves, the plan of the expedition was apparently known. At any rate, a plan was freely discussed by numerous gatherings of people at the street corners along the levee, and I presume I shall be committing no breach of the proprieties of correspondence by repeating what rebel sympathizers assert to be facts. According to their story, the plan of the expedition, at first under the command of Gen. BANKS, but now controlled by Col. DUNBAR, was as follows: The different transports named were to take the brigade, artillery and cavalry up the river as far as the boats could safely go; Gen. BANKS was to accompany the forces and remain with them until all were landed and ready to march.

The only object of Gen. BANKS' presence appeared to be that he might know the exact time of the moving of the troops. After this was accomplished, Gen. BANKS was to return to Baton Rouge and take command of the forces here, and commence a forward movement immediately in the direction of Port Hudson. Col. DUNBAR, in the meantime, was expected to go around the rebel stronghold in front, viz.: on the west side of the river, while Gen. BANKS was to menace the enemy in the rear. The object of all this appeared to be a determination to send a land force to assist Admiral FARRAGUT, who was to proceed up the Red River, destroy all means the rebels had of sending supplies to Port Hudson, and thereby force them into a solid fight, or take the alternative of starving to death behind their fortifications.

THE REBELS CUT THE LEVEE.

Had there been nothing to obstruct the march of Col. DUNBAR but rebel soldiers, he would undoubtedly have been entirely successful; for the enemy, with Gen. BANKS in their rear, would hardly have dared to leave their fortifications. The rebels, however, are an ingenious set of fellows. They not only found out our intentions, but actually anticipated every movement we made. For instance, the transports, as I have before mentioned, left this port Wednesday night. The weather was foggy, and an intense darkness prevailed. These circumstances would at first seem favorable to the success of the expedition, but the contrary was the case, for about ten miles above there, the rebels had cut the levee for half a mile, making one of the largest crevasses that has ever been in this part of the country.

The worst feature of the crevasse was, it had been cut just at the head of the river, where the current is strongest and navigation the most difficult between this point and Port Hudson. The result of this piece of rebel enterprise was our transports all ran aground as soon as they struck the strong tide of the crevasse; one of them, the Morning Light, passed through the levee, and was landed "high and dry" in a neighboring cane field. When morning came we were able to get three of the boats, but it was not until night the Morning Light could be extricated from a position in which she was every hour in danger of being wrecked. The anxiety of our officers may be imagined when I state, if the vessel had gone to pieces in all probability 600 troops would have been drowned. Of course, the accidents that happened to our transports gave the rebels every opportunity to observe our movements, for our vessels, when the morning dawned, lay in sight of the enemy's fortifications.

TRYING TO DROWN A BRIGADE.

The rebels were so successful in their first experiment of cutting the levee, that as soon as we had effected a landing for our soldiers—which we did seven or eight miles below Port Hudson—they, the night following, cut the levee again within easy range of their guns, and tried to drown the entire brigade. Col. DUNBAR saw his danger, and immediately sent up several squads of troops to stop the new crevasse.

As soon as our soldiers made their appearance and commenced work, they were shelled from the rebel batteries, and three killed. They were, in consequence of the hot fire, obliged to retreat. In two or three nights, however, we shall succeed in repairing the levee, but it is feared that the whole country will be flooded on the west side of the river before we can do so—at any rate, so much of it as to make the march of DUNBAR's brigade around Port Hudson extremely difficult.

I am now, I think, very correctly informed that Col. DUNBAR's forces, after sending out scouts to within a few hundred yards of the rebel entrenchments, concluded not to make an effort to pass above Port Hudson, but to remain in the neighborhood of that place until ordered back to join the main army.

DEPARTURE OF GEN. BANKS FOR NEW-ORLEANS.

Gen. BANKS and staff left last night, on the steamer Empire Parish, for Baton Rouge. Gen. AUGUR arrived here yesterday with his division from the front.

IMPORTANT FROM KENTUCKY.

Pegram's Forces Defeated by Gen. Gilmore.

LOUISVILLE, Wednesday, April 1.

An official Somerset telegram says Gen. GILMORE's forces attacked the rebels under PEGRAM, in a strong position, near Somerset, yesterday, fought them five or six hours, and whipped them badly, driving them toward the river. The rebels outnumbered us two to one. Our loss does not exceed 30. The rebel loss is not stated.

NEWS FROM HAVANA.

Movements of Admiral Wilkes—The Blockade Raunerers.

HAVANA, Monday, March 23.

We have no later news from Mexico.

Dates from Puerto Rico to the 12th inst. contain nothing of interest. All was quiet in St. Domingo, and the rebellion was quashed.

The Captain-General is making a tour of the Island of Cuba. He has visited Matanzas, Bimba, Cardenas and Sagua, and was to leave the latter place for Villa Clara on the 21st.

The steamers Vanderbilt and Sonoma have entered this port and gone. Admiral WILKES came by the former, leaving the Wachusett at St. Thomas. Capt. PEYNES, of the Sonoma, will take her home for new boilers and repairs. The flag is to be removed to the Sonoma, and until the arrival of the Juniata she is to be commanded by Capt. WYMAN.

March 20.—Arrived, Confederate sloop Atlantic, 6 days from Mobile, 12 tons barden, with cotton. March 19.—Sailed, Confederate schooner Clara, for Matamoras. March 21.—Sailed, Confederate schooner Ranger, for Jamaica.

P. S.—The English steamer Neptune came in last night, 4 days from St. Thomas, with two passengers; but I can find no news by her. She is 135 tons, and is presumed to be intended to run the blockade. She reports in ballast.

The Bermuda arrived this morning. The Eagle is expected.

NEWS FROM WASHINGTON.

Report of the Committee on the Conduct of the War.

OUR SPECIAL WASHINGTON DISPATCHES.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, April 1.

REPORT OF THE WAR COMMITTEE.

The Committee on the Conduct of the War completed their report to-day. It is very voluminous, and upward of four hours were consumed in reading it. It gives a complete synopsis of the evidence, and is a critical inquiry into the Peninsular campaign under McCLELLAN, the Virginia campaign under POPE, the battle at Antietam, and the repulse at Fredericksburgh. Each of these is separately considered, and the testimony regarding each is grouped by itself. Facts only are presented, without coloring or bias toward or against any of the commanders who are the subjects of the investigation. The report will be put to press to-morrow, and will probably be given to the representatives of the New-York papers on Saturday.

THE SHENANDOAH VALLEY.

A gentleman, who arrived here this evening, from Winchester, says that a perfect reign of terror exists in the surrounding country, caused by guerrilla bands prowling about and committing all conceivable depredations on the property of Unionmen.

ACCIDENT TO THE NEW-YORK EXPRESS TRAIN.

The 7½ New-York Express train broke down this morning at 4 o'clock, while going at full speed, near Ferryman. Four cars were thrown off the track; three—the baggage, smoking and express cars—were demolished, and the train delayed ten hours. No lives were lost. A dozen or so were scratched and bruised slightly.

MAPS FOR THE PROVOST-MARSHALS.

In the Department of the Interior maps of each of the States are being prepared for the use of the Provost-Marshals—each showing the limits of the several Congressional Districts in the States.

The President and Secretary of War were in consultation several hours to-day, making appointments of Provost-Marshals. They will probably be announced to-morrow. About one-half of the appointees will be civilians, and the other half officers detailed for the purpose from the army. Congressional recommendations have generally prevailed.

BOOKS AND DOCUMENTS FOR MEMBERS OF CONGRESS.

The Secretary of the Interior has declined the execution of the joint resolution of Congress for the distribution of all books and documents possessed by Congress, and published by their order, among the members of the present Congress. The measure is impracticable, as well as illegal. It would give $18,000 worth of books to each member. The author and chief promoter of the measure, a member of the House, has applied for his share, but has not succeeded in obtaining it.

EXAMINING SURGEONS.

The following appointments of Examining Surgeons were made, to-day, by the Commissioner of Pensions:

Dr. JOHN N. HOUGHTON PHILLIPS, Maine.
Dr. CHARLES P. CLARK, Woodbury, N. J.
Dr. MANUEL EMANUEL, Lisbonport, Penn.

DISPATCHES TO THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, April 1.

THE PASSAGE OF FORT HUDSON.

Dispatches from the Mississippi Squadron embrace reports from the commanders of the several vessels which attempted to pass Port Hudson on the night of the 14th of March, from which it appears that they had reached the last and most formidable batteries, and were congratulating themselves upon having gained the turn in the river, when the Mississippi grounded. Fearful that this vessel, under the galling fire of the enemy, would fall into their hands, she was deliberately destroyed by her commander, after the removal of all on board. No private effects were saved. This mishap to the Mississippi caused a derangement of the well-contrived programme of Admiral FARRAGUT for the passage of all the vessels of the fleet. The fighting on the part of our men is described as in the highest degree creditable to them, all striving to exhibit superior prowess.

THE NATIONAL BANKING LAW.

The Treasury Department will soon issue a circular, containing full information, to those desirous of organizing companies under the recently enacted Banking and National Currency law. Numerous applications have already been made, some specifying the amount of capital, while others are deficient in this particular.

REVENUE DECISION.

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has made the following decision concerning taxes improperly paid:

"Decision No. 67 is hereby revoked, and hereafter all taxes must be collected as returned by the Assessors. Claims for taxes improperly paid under the Excise law must be made by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue through the Collectors of the respective districts supported by the affidavits of the claimants and the certificates of the Assessor, under whose direction the taxes were assessed. First the claimant must state in the affidavit the material facts of the case on which he makes his claim. Second, the Assessor and Assistant Assessor must certify the statements made in the affidavit are true so far as each has knowledge of the facts. Third, the Collector must append his certificate that the tax has been paid to him as stated in the affidavit.

"When an affidavit is made by an agent, the principal or the Agent must swear that the person making the affidavit is the agent, and that the statements are true according to his best knowledge and belief. When an affidavit is made by a member of a firm or company, he must swear that he is a member of such firm or company. The official character of the officer who administers the oath must be established either by his official seal or by the certificate of the proper authority. When a claim is thus prepared it must be sent to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, and, if it is found correct, a draft will be drawn on the Collector who received the tax in favor of the claimant for the amount that may be allowed.

"The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has also decided that weiss-bier, or white-beer, is subject to the same duty as ale and lager-beer, and its manufacturers are subject to all the liabilities of brewers."

POSTAL MAPS.

The Postmaster-General some time ago gave orders for the preparation of a series of postal maps, but the work was not commenced, owing to the illness and subsequent death of HENRY A. BURR, the topographer of the Department, which is much exercised to find a gentleman of proper qualifications, as his successor.

FIRST COMPTROLLER.

First Comptroller of the Treasury ROBERT W. TAYLOR, though confirmed at least a month ago, has not yet entered upon his duties.

CAPTURE OF CONTRABAND GOODS.

The Schooner Jane Morley Seized on the Lower Potomac—A Valuable Cargo on Board.

WASHINGTON, Wednesday, April 1.

The schooner Jane Morley, formerly La Fourche, of Baltimore, owned by HOLLS, BALL & Co., arrived at the steamboat wharf to-day in tow of a tug, having been sent up from the lower river, where she was captured yesterday. She had been engaged in the contraband traffic, which finds its way between the rebels in Maryland and Virginia, across the Potomac, near the extremity of the Peninsula between the Potomac and the Rappahannock. A party of twenty-five commissioners were engaged on board, including several ex-Washingtonians of notoriety. The contraband goods captured make a very extensive pile on the wharf, and attracts much attention. It embraces a large amount of supplies of quinine, morphine, Confederate uniforms, buttons, internal machines of novel construction, army blankets, forty cases of boots and shoes, leather satchels, soap, coffee, and thirty large mail bags containing mail packages and some 3,000 letters to parties in Virginia and North Carolina.

The letters, it is said, are of a character to certainly compromise contemporaries in this city and in Maryland, and the developments of the underground operations of the rebels, which they disclose, will prove of material service to the Government.

A smoking cap, dressing-gown and pair of slippers, gifts to Jeff. DAVIS from his lady admirers in Washington, were among the articles; also a hand-dress, a brilliantly colored balmoral, and half-a-dozen fancy embroidered handkerchiefs, gifts to Mrs. DAVIS. The boxes are mostly consigned to the care of TRAIN, SAX & Co., Richmond, but now also cypher designations, which with the letters taken will serve to show the real parties concerned in the trade.

THE ARMY OF THE POTOMAC.

FROM THE LEFT WING OF THE ARMY.

The Rebel Army Not Falling Back—Reinforcements Hurrying Toward—Movements of the Rebel Forces—Averell and Lee.

LEFT WING ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Thursday, March 26, 1863.

The Washington authorities, who state that the rebel army is falling back from the Rappahannock to the defences of Richmond, have been misinformed. On the contrary, the enemy are hurrying forward reinforcements rapidly, under the impression that a second attack is to be made near Fredericksburgh. This I know to be true. An editorial on the situation, which appears in the Richmond Examiner of the 16th, contains the following significant sentence:

"The plan of the enemy, so far as developed, seems to be an engagement with the Confederates on the old ground near Fredericksburgh, while a large army passes the Rappahannock far higher, and keeping the uplands on this side of the stream, come down on Lee's rear."

All indications go to show that the Richmond editor gives expression, in the above sentence, to the opinion entertained by the rebel commanders. They have, it is true, withdrawn their forces from directly around Fredericksburgh, but merely to move them up stream, in order to be prepared for such a movement on our part as is here contemplated. A strong force has been posted near United States Ford, consisting of infantry, cavalry and artillery. Another formidable force has also been located at Rascoob's Ford, on the Rappahannock. ANDERSON and WILCOX's divisions have been moved up, and lie opposite Banks' and United States Fords.

Gen. FITZHUGH LEE has been stationed near Culpeper with 2,000 picked cavalry, ready to move at a moment's notice. The statement which appeared in one of your contemporaries, to the effect that this wily rebel wrote a defiant letter to his old class-mate, inviting him to cross the river and engage in a cavalry fight, is untrue. He did, however, write a letter to Gen. AVERELL, who was in the class ahead of him at West Point, and a warm friend prior to the war. Instead of being of a menacing character, however, it reads somewhat as follows:

"Stop your shooting. Go home and take your soldiers out of my State. Send me some coffee, or else take your ships out of our ports, so that we can keep up the supply."

Gen. AVERELL wrote a reply, but was unable to deliver it. During the progress of the fight he saw Gen. LEE distinctly.

Maj. CHAMBERLAIN, who was at first supposed to be fatally wounded, is still alive, and will, his physicians think, recover. He has been delirious a portion of the time. Gen. HOOKER has, in person, complimented Col. DUPTIE and Lieut. BROWN (who led a charge) for the gallantry displayed by them in the engagement.

The Rebel Jubilants—The News of Gen. Sumner's Death—An Attack upon Our Pickets.

HEADQUARTERS, ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Wednesday Evening, March 25, 1863. }

The rebels were yesterday participating in a "glorification" of some description. The forces posted about six miles below Fredericksburgh kept up a continuous beating of drums, cheering, &c., from morning till night, which I could distinctly hear on this side of the river. Between 3 and 5 o'clock in the afternoon several discharges of artillery took place, leading many of our officers to infer that a skirmish was taking place. I am at a loss to divine the occasion of this demonstration, unless it be the reception of favorable news from the South or West. The enemy certainly could not have been commemorating the severe drubbing which Stonewall JACKSON received at Winchester last year.

The news of the death of Gen. SUMNER created a profound sensation through the army. General Orders were issued by corps and division commanders, meetings held, and other demonstrations of regard for the departed chief.

The enemy attacked our line of pickets near Banks' Ford last night, but occasioned no damage. A force sent out to hunt up the attacking party was unable to find it.

The weather has been extremely mild and balmy to-day, and the roads are rapidly drying up. J.

Extract of a Private Letter, dated

ARMY OF THE POTOMAC, Saturday, March 28, 1863.

Yesterday was a gala day in the Army of the Potomac, and especially to those who had the opportunity of witnessing the out-door amusements in Gen. BURNSIDE's division. The announcement that a fair young lady had entered the lists against three or four Generals of acknowledged skill in horsemanship, doubtless did much toward attracting thither the numerous assemblage of bright uniforms, together with a sprinkling of ladies, who have, through the kindness of Gen. HOOKER, been permitted to visit for a few days their stray friends in the field. The day was fair, but the most fastidious could desire. As early as 11 in the morning you could see, wending their way to the race-track, a large concourse of pedestrians and mounted officers, all evidently feeling the influence of the bracing atmosphere, which the rain of the previous day had strengthened and purified. At 1 o'clock the sports commenced, consisting of racing and trotting, hurdle-races, hunting dishes and other feats. The race between the fair equestrian and the Generals, however, did not come off, owing, as I understand, to an accident which happened to a near relative of the lady while leaping one of the hurdles. The day wound up with a collation at Gen. BURNSIDE's headquarters, to which only a limited number (of necessity) participated.

These manly field sports, so successfully inaugurated on St. Patrick's Day, by Gen. T. F. MEAGHER, of the Irish Brigade, are vastly popular, as they show he, for nothing more tends to develop the physique, or excite emulation in a vemiorous way, than amusements of this nature.

On our way to the race-ground, we encountered the division of Maj.-Gen. SYKES, out for review and inspection. This division is composed of one brigade of volunteers, Col. FARNUM H. O'ROURKE commanding, and two brigades of regulars, commanded respectively by Maj. R. S. SMITH and Maj. DE LANCY THOMAS JOHNS, of the Eleventh Infantry, the latter having just returned to his command, after an investigation of complaints made by some of his juniors, and meeting with a most cordial welcome back. SYKES' division looked well, and will evidently give a good account of itself in the coming struggle. The Fifth New-York Volunteers claimed the admiration of all, and, with due deference to the regulars, it must be admitted that this regiment has a military bearing not excelled in the army. Its present commander is evidently following the excellent example and instructions of its former Colonel, now Brigadier-General, WARREN. VERITAS.

"VULLIGNEA, March 27. BRAXTON BRAGG.
"To Gen. S. COOPER."

FROM VICKSBURGH.

MEMPHIS, Friday, March 27.

A dispatch from Vicksburgh says, at 9 o'clock this morning four boats were seen advancing toward the upper batteries; a vigorous fire was opened upon them, driving back two, when the other two passed under a raking fire, almost every shot taking effect. One received a shot in her steam-chest, compelling her crew to desert her, and in 15 minutes she filled and sunk. Part of her crew escaped to the opposite shore. The boat that escaped is supposed to be the Queen, badly disabled. One shot penetrated the steam drum, disabling her so badly that the Lioness towed her off out of danger from our gunboats."

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

Sudden and Mysterious Death of a Woman in Jersey City.

Supposed Poisoning Case—The Stomach and Brains Missing—Arrest of a Wealthy New-York Merchant—Coroner's Investigation.

On Sunday last District-Attorney ISAAC W. SCUDDER, of Jersey City, received an anonymous letter informing him that a Mrs. SUSAN THOMAS, wife of John Jacob THOMAS, a reputed wealthy dealer in silks and ribbons, doing business in New-York and residing at the country residence of Mr. JAMES GREEZY, and formerly owned by DANIEL WEBSTER, situated on Weehawken Hill, died suddenly, and under circumstances which led to the suspicion that there had been foul play.

The case was given into the hands of officers to investigate, with instructions not to allow the matter to become known. The officers have labored assiduously since Sunday night last, and from them and other sources we gather the following facts:

On Friday, the 21st inst., the deceased Mrs. THOMAS went to New-York, returning again toward night in apparent good health. Upon retiring to rest, a little before 11 o'clock, she was seized with violent spasms. Mr. THOMAS went to the gate-house, occupied by his gardener and family, and directed the gardener, DANIEL MURPHY, and wife, to go up to his house, and their son to hurry for a doctor. When the gardener and wife went into the house, they found Mrs. THOMAS in a violent spasm; upon coming out of it, she appeared perfectly rational, and expressed a desire to live that she might rear up her family; she also made the remark that she had not taken any poison; she complained of uremic upset the bowels. The doctor arrived and prescribed morphine, but without effect; and he afterward bled the patient, when she became easier, and toward morning, the gardener and wife were sent home, as the patient was considered out of danger, and the physician also gone after leaving his departure. About 5½ A. M. the gardener and wife were again aroused by Mr. THOMAS to go to the house, and the son was dispatched for the physician. Upon going into the room, MURPHY discovered that Mrs. THOMAS was dead. On Sunday morning, Mr. THOMAS engaged Dr. REXIS, of North Hoboken, and Drs. RYAN and CURRIER, of Hoboken, to make a post-mortem examination, which they did, concluding it at about 1 P. M. It was understood that the funeral was to take place on Monday, but Mr. THOMAS suggested to Dr. REXIS that the corpse should be interred that afternoon, and the latter coincided, alleging that the corpse began to emit an unpleasant odor. A messenger was sent to Jersey City for carriages and hearse, and, in the meantime, a hearse and carriages returning from the cemetery in Hoboken were engaged for the purpose, and the once from Jersey City were turned back. The deceased, accompanied by a few friends, was conveyed about 3 P. M. to the New-Durham Cemetery, and interred, without any Hebrew being present, or any funeral services taking place.

On Monday night, by order of Coroner FERRAN, the body was exhumed, and hurriedly conveyed to the police station in Jersey City. On Tuesday Dr. FERRAN made a post-mortem examination, when he discovered that the stomach and bowels were empty, but no farther than that have yet been divulged.

The remains of deceased looked remarkably fresh and but little discoloration of the skin was observed, and effusion arising from it was scarcely perceptible in a ventilated room.

On Tuesday evening, Mr. THOMAS, who was not aware of the proceedings that had taken place, was arrested at the Hoboken ferry-house on his way home, and is now lodged in the City Prison at Jersey City to await the results of an investigation.

Yesterday, it was stated that the stomach of the deceased which was left out with the intention at first to have its contents analyzed, had been thrown into the sink of the outhouse, as the physicians decided that the cause of death was congestion of the brain, and the remains at that time had been sewed up. The inquest was commenced yesterday.

TESTIMONY.

District-Attorney J. W. SCUDDER, Esq., appeared for the people, and R. CUMMINS, Jr., was retained as counsel on the part of Mr. THOMAS.

Dr. Augustus WM. SCHIFFELIN, sworn, and testified through an interpreter, JOHN H. HOSKING: I reside in Hoboken, and am a physician; knew Mrs. THOMAS of Union Hill; attended Mrs. THOMAS six weeks ago; did not attend her on the 21st of March; attended her post-mortem on Sunday, the 22d of March; there was present Dr. CURRIER and Dr. RYAN, Mr. SCHIFFELIN; a relation of Mr. THOMAS requested me to attend; that was on Sunday morning; the two physicians, Mr. SCHIFFELIN and myself were present; I made an incision of the body for about one-half the length of the breast; I had not proceeded far before I discovered the pericardium; then the head; the stomach was opened a little way down; and appeared to be in a good state; they told Mr. THOMAS it would be well to preserve it in case any further examination was necessary; did not know what became of the stomach; left it on the table in the room; left the stomach with Mr. SCHIFFELIN, suggesting that they wished to have it examined; does not know what Mr. SCHIFFELIN did with it; Mr. SCHIFFELIN thought that as the stomach appeared perfectly natural, it would be necessary to examine the contents of the stomach; by further examination, the brain was removed, and put back again in the skull; the skull was in a morbid condition; the brain was of different colors, and in the cavity there was from three to four ounces of thin fluid blood; there was an abnormal fullness to the veins; in the left ventricle of the brain there was an injection of blood in a part of the brain was in a healthy condition; the substance of the edge was very white, and in a normal condition; so with the extravasation of blood, the brain was in excellent condition; the condition of the brain was sufficient to cause death; but not from that alone; the heart was in the best condition, but the heart was favored with fat; not hard, very thin, but no blood in the vessels of the heart; in the left ventricle, six or eight weeks ago, I made an examination, and found a slight noise or murmur in the heart; the heart was healthy; the heart was better, and told me to go home and have some sleep, that the danger was over; Dr. RYAN came between 12 and 1; he gave deceased some medicine out of a bottle; I saw no effect except that the fits were not so hard; he bled her once, and then opened the second again; I was not in the habit of going to her house; never heard any trouble between Mr. and Mrs. THOMAS; that night she prayed that she might be saved to rear up her children, and remarked that she had not taken any poison; that it was strange that she should make the remark; the doctor left at half-past five, and she was then alive; when I went up soon after, she was dead; Dr. RYAN came again; he told me that he did not think her dangerous; have heard that Mr. and Mrs. THOMAS had words before Christmas; heard that there was a large sum mysteriously taken; deceased had about five convulsions while I was there; Mr. THOMAS was outside the room, apparently in great trouble; the servants; I suppose Mr. THOMAS was present when she died; she grew dangerous about seven o'clock; I left at eight, and wanted to see Mr. THOMAS; I would not let him, and he came next morning and said that the authorities wanted to exhume the body; then he let him in the gate; there was no minister at the funeral; I was told deceased would be buried on Monday, and then I heard that she had to be buried Sunday; she looked very healthy and good; they employed a hearse and carriages returning from a funeral, and the ones engaged at Jersey City were turned back; noticed that the hoss were crowded, did not take notice of her lungs; deceased talked mostly in German.

Dr. James BOIS, sworn: I reside at North Hoboken, and am a physician; I have no diploma, but have certificates from professors abroad; I am Mr. THOMAS' family physician; I attended deceased about Christmas; was in the house the week deceased died; I was not complaining then; was called on Friday night a week ago; arrived there about half-past eleven P. M.; she was laying in bed, and complained of pain in her feet; her head was hot, and when she was seized it pained the whole; had no other; and still continued very quiet; I left her in bed; no effect; still continued very quiet; five to the touch; after about half an hour she had very strong convulsions; I then considered her dangerous; I told her to be easy; she was quite easy; and then gave her a pill; in the hall another fit of convulsions; then took about two ounces of blood from the same opening, and she became easier; my boy ran to him; I thought the convulsions; left after; I went home about half past two o'clock; left Mr. THOMAS in the room; I went down; I was called again; the same symptoms; she died; I was in the room when she died; a few minutes; I was made by request of Mr. THOMAS; he called in the other two doctors; when the skull was opened a great deal of blood was out; the veins were very large and full; I was of opinion that death caused by the blood running in the great quantity in the brain; immediately preceding it; we found the stomach very large; I did not see the stomach; I left it in the room; I was not asked; we had the intention to send the stomach to a chemist for examination; I was told on the table; I did not know until to-day that the stomach was not with the body; myself and Dr. RYAN gave the body up; we had to be in the care of Mr. SCHIFFELIN; I did not give a certificate of death; I did not write the death book; I gave no directions for her to be buried on Sunday; I did not give a certificate of death at that time; the undertaker called for a certificate a day or two after; I was from home; he said he would send for me; I did not; I gave the undertaker a certificate; I did not tell him anything about Mrs. THOMAS' death; I was surprised to hear of her death in the morning; other death the last week concerned a little; do not think they died very suddenly together; Mr. SCHIFFELIN said one-to-day that he put the stomach in the outhouse.

The inquest was adjourned until to-day.

The Conscription Law.

A LETTER FROM SENATOR WILSON TO FERNANDO WOOD, IN DEFENCE OF THE CONSCRIPTION LAW.

NATICK, Monday, March 30, 1863.

Hon. Fernando Wood:

SIR: You are everywhere recognized as the brain, the heart, the soul, the philosopher and guide of the Mozart Hall Democracy, and, as such, you are New-York. Your restless brain inspires its utterances; your [illegible] and [illegible] Your reflections, then, it is in it that you should be held responsible.

[illegible] Mozart Hall [illegible] clamorous who are wont to assemble in Mozart Hall and do your bidding.

[illegible] Mozart Hall [illegible] against the [illegible] National forces, to prevent the raising of the National forces, and the [illegible] Mozart Hall, illuminated by [illegible] conclusion that this act, for the protection of our imperiled country, makes an infamous distinction between the rich and the poor!! Sir, this accusation is false, wickedly, maliciously and [illegible] [illegible] that this accused rebellion now [illegible] upon Abraham Lincoln, the patriot-loving, humanity-loving, God-fearing people of the loyal States, and [illegible] chemically, morally and wickedly false than is this declaration of Mozart Hall, that the conscription act makes distinctions in favor of the rich and against the poor.

[illegible] Of course, it [illegible] Mozart Hall of international [illegible] Sir, it matters not whether this accusation of Mozart Hall against the Conscription Act be [illegible] or of falsehood. It is equally fallacious, deceptive, mischievous. It is an accusation flung before the people by the reckless hand of malignant demagoguism, to poison the heart and mislead the reason. Surely the heart, conscience and reason of loyal people will mark and brand the basis that combined, the hand that penned and the tongue that proclaimed this foul, wicked and shameless calumny against an Act which bears the amplest evidence in every line, that its framers intended its burdens should fall as light as possible on the toiling masses.

This "Act for enrolling and calling out the national forces" denounced by your Mozart Hall followers for making distinctions between the rich and the poor, excepts and exempts not members of Congress, not custom-house officers, not postmasters, not Government clerks, not the State judiciaries, not ministers of the Gospel and professors and students in colleges—ah! not these fortunate and favored classes of men, for it exempts them and requires them either to fight, finance, or pay for substitutes. Why, then, does this law, so flagrantly denounced by Mozart Hall Democracy, except and exempt?

Vote taxes, branded by you, Sir, and your classmen, excepts and exempts first, the Vice-Presidents of the United States, the Judges of the various Courts of the United States, the heads of the various executive departments of the Government, and the Governors of the several States; second, the only son liable to military duty in a family dependent upon his labor for support; third, the only child of aged or infirm parents or grandparents dependent on his labor for support; fourth, where there are two or more sons of aged or infirm parents subject to draft, the father, or if he be dead, the mother, may elect which son shall be exempt; fifth, the only brother of children not 12 years old, having neither father nor mother, dependent upon his labor for support; sixth, the father of motherless children under 12 years of age dependent upon his labor for support; seventh, where there are two of a father and sons in the same family and both drafted, not two of them are in the military service of the United States; all non-commissioned officers, musicians or privates, the residue of such family or household, not exceeding two, shall be exempt; eighth, young men between the ages of 18 and 20 are exempt, for the reason that experience proves that soldiers under 20 years of age cannot sustain the hardships of campaigns as well as men between the ages of 20 and 35.

These, Sir, are the exemptions of the Conscription act, (so called,) in favor of the poor, upon whom, only, shall the aged, the infirm, the helpless, rely. Is it making infamous distinctions between the rich and the poor to exempt the only son of aged or infirm parents dependent on them for bread, and compel men to become officers to fight, procure substitutes, or pay for substitutes? Is it making infamous distinctions between the rich and the poor to exempt the only brother of fatherless and motherless children under 12 years of age, dependent upon their daily toil for support, and compel postmasters and Government clerks to fight, procure substitutes, or pay for substitutes? Is it making infamous distinctions between the rich and the poor to exempt the fathers of motherless children, dependent upon their daily toil for support, and compel State judges, justices of the peace, city mayors and college professors to fight, procure substitutes, or pay for substitutes? Is this law which thus discriminates in favor of the poor is denounced and anathematized by Mozart Hall, Shame on Mozart Hall! Shame on the men who misrepresent the benevolent provisions of an act passed to protect the homes of our imperiled country.

The 1st section of the Conscription act provides that any person drafted and notified to appear at Washington may, on or before the day fixed for his appearance, furnish an acceptable substitute to take his place in the draft, or he may pay a sum to the Secretary of War sufficient to procure a substitute. Such sum shall not exceed three hundred dollars, or the Secretary may commute, when the procurement of men by a draft may require it, for the procurement of men by a draft, which sum shall be in lieu of a draft by any State or Territory. Any person may furnish an acceptable substitute to take his place in the draft at any price for which he can procure one. Every drafted man is at liberty to furnish a substitute at such rate as he may agree on; pay the substitute; or any drafted man may pay such sum, not exceeding three hundred dollars, as the Secretary of War may determine, to procure a substitute.

The sum determined upon by the Secretary cannot exceed three hundred dollars; it may be ten, fifty, one hundred, two hundred dollars, or any sum within the limits of three hundred dollars. This provision of allowing a sum not to exceed three hundred dollars to be paid to the Government to procure substitutes, was put into the law for the sole and single purpose of keeping down the price of substitutes, so that men of very moderate means, and poor men, could more readily obtain substitutes. This provision enables the Secretary to fix the sum which will be the price of substitutes. Without this provision, it was believed the price for substitutes would go up at once to one thousand or two thousand dollars, so that some men could not obtain them. If any drafted man [illegible] substitute for a sum less than that fixed by the Secretary, he is at liberty to do so. This provision [illegible] upon the Secretary to fix a sum [illegible] three hundred dollars, was put [illegible] speculators, to keep down the [illegible]

[illegible] Democrats a means [illegible] drafted men [illegible] men, into a d[illegible] in favor of [illegible] the poor. [illegible] wickedness [illegible] their go.

Sir, this act for enrolling and calling out the national forces gives assurance to the world that it is the unalterable purpose of the nation to crush out this [illegible] of our country, and the precious blood of its heroic defenders [illegible] national defence, by reviving the waning hopes of the rebellion, may force upon the Government the necessity of putting into operation the draft provided for by this act. Treason cannot be arrested except by promptly whipping the rebellious hosts of the loyal men in the rebel States, and by immediately providing a united and unanimous support to the Government, that speedily and thoroughly crushes the hosts and effectually baffling the efforts of the rebels.

SENDT WILSON.

NEW-ENGLAND.

Henry Ward Beecher on What Shall be Done with Her.

RECEPTION OF MAJOR-GENERAL FREMONT.

On Tuesday night, before the Young Men of Brooklyn, Rev. HENRY WARD BEECHER delivered an address at the Academy of Music on New-England. Despite the discomfort of the day, the slush upon the pavement and the prospect of more rain, the spacious auditorium was packed with people desirous of hearing the celebrated orator, divine and statesman upon one of the most interesting topics of the day. At 8 o'clock precisely the Committee escorted the speaker upon the stage, followed by and several members of his staff. The entrance of the General was the signal for tumultuous and enthusiastic applause. Cheer after cheer rang through the house, and for several moments it was impossible for the regular proceedings of the night to go on. Gen. FREMONT courteously acknowledged the friendly recognition of his presence and took his seat by the side of Mr. BEECHER, supported by Col. BARNETT, of Springfield fame, Major HASKELL, Capt. HOWARD, Capt. RAYMOND and Capt. NICHOLS.

Quiet having been restored, and many of the most prominent clergy and lay citizens of Brooklyn having taken their assigned places upon the stage,

Gen. H. E. DURYEA advanced to the front and in graceful terms introduced Gen. FREMONT. The General arose and was greeted with nine as hearty cheers as ever sprang from the lips of men, which he reciprocated by a pleasant smile and a courteous bow.

Gen. DURYEA then stated that Gen. WOOD, (ex-Mayor,) who had promised to be present on the occasion, had been detained by official duty, but was represented by his staff. He then introduced Rev. HENRY WARD BEECHER, who was received with enthusiasm, and spoke substantially as follows; his address being, as will be observed, materially different from that which, on the same topic, he delivered some two months since in Albany and Boston:

ADDRESS OF HENRY WARD BEECHER.

Mr. BEECHER commenced by saying that, between the River St. Lawrence and the Atlantic ocean is a small tract of land of a few hundred miles, which seems to have been made up out of what was left after the rest of this Continent was made. (Laughter.) Its rim stand out past all covering. It has sand enough to scour all creation. (Laughter.) It has not many large rivers, but many small ones, which seem to have contented themselves with leaping over ledges of rock since the flood. Its principal products were, at first, Indians, ice and wood, and the principal white trees were Indians and wheelbarrows. (Laughter.) About the time of its discovery a pestilence had swept from it the Indian inhabitants. The climate and the soil proved too tough for Indians or traders. It was bounded on the north by perpetual cold, on the east by perpetual fog, on the south by perpetual water, and the west was the only opening left for the people to run away, if they wanted to. (Laughter.) It was apparently on purpose to settle such a country that a race was raised up. The animal that was created to live on the soil of New-England was a Puritan. The animal was not to be found described in natural history, but he was described in political speeches and newspapers; and if we could not believe in political speeches and newspapers what could we believe? (Laughter.) They say that the Puritan is tough, gaunt and sour, and that his eyes are continually rolling up and that whenever his eyes are let down it is to find fault or money, as the case may be. (Laughter.) He was described as a sort of moral tinker, always finding fault with everything, and generally making up the deficiencies he sees in Providence and Nature. He is regarded as the mount of more radicalism, discussion and excitement than all the rest of creation. We are told that the climate of New-England is growing milder, so that even the Winters can't stand the eternal brawling of the Puritans. (Laughter and applause.) As long as the contest was between him and nature were content. He was regarded as one of the poets of the Continent—worse than the Hessian fly—worse than the Canada thistle, with its million seeds, and every seed more destructive, growing fast and faster when cut up than when let alone. (Laughter.) Among all the annoyances of this Continent there had been none worse than the prying, dissatisfied, meddling, irritating creature found in New-England. (Laughter and applause.) No creature was ever born that had such rare features for making people uncomfortable. He was continually inventing some new way for harrowing, sowing, plowing or raking. His patterns for new stoves would reach half round the world. (Laughter.) It is not wonderful that the grit of the Yankee offends the pulp of the other. Yankees make the worst slaveholders. A man is wicked in proportion as he is apostate. He could understand how the Southerners could believe in Slavery, but a New-Englander who would go South to participate in Slavery was an apostate of the worst kind. (Applause.) A man was bad in proportion to the distance he had to travel to get hold of Satan. Southern humanity which takes the shoes off the [illegible] and [illegible] Yankee humanity which [illegible] and [illegible] Yankee humanity which [illegible] and [illegible] Yankee humanity which

THE REBELLION.

Additional news from Vicksburgh corroborates the reports which have previously reached us of the failure of the new expedition intended to flank Haines' Bluff by way of the Sunflower. Admiral Porter succeeded in getting through Steele's and Black Bayous, and proceeded twenty-five or thirty miles further in Deer and Rolling Forks, when he encountered a small force of rebels, who compelled him to await the arrival of infantry. Meantime the enemy obstructed the channel, and otherwise annoyed the gunboats, and when our infantry arrived the rebels had accumulated such a force as to render further progress extremely hazardous. Our loss in the skirmishing which took place before the retreat was ten or twelve killed and wounded. The rebel loss is unknown.

A Baton Rouge correspondent of the Philadelphia Inquirer furnishes the public intelligence of a movement up the west bank of the Mississippi, made by a brigade commanded by Col. Dupley, subsequent to the movement against the Port Hudson intrenchments, made simultaneously with the attack upon the rebel batteries by Admiral Farragut. The intention of the movement seems to have been to pass above the batteries and cooperate with the Admiral in a movement up the Red River to cut off the rebel supplies. This was frustrated, however, by the rebels cutting the levees and flooding the country, so as to render land movements impossible.

The rebels who last "invaded" Kentucky have not escaped without some punishment. A Louisville dispatch announces that the force under Gen. Pegram, which had taken up a strong position near Somerset, was attacked on Tuesday by the National forces under Gen. Gilmore, and badly defeated, after a five or six hours' fight. Our loss in the affair does not exceed thirty. The rebel loss is not stated.

A dispatch from Washington to the Philadelphia Ledger says that the Administration confidently anticipates that news will be received before the close of the present week of important successes by our fleet, in the rear of Charleston, arrangements having been perfected for the commencement of the attack on the 20th or 27th ult. If the batteries at Stono can be taken, it is believed our troops can be landed and the city reached without assaulting Sumter and Moultrie at all; while these forts, by being cut off from their supplies, owing to our occupation of the city, would soon fall into our possession without the loss of a man or a vessel.

A contraband trader was captured in the Lower Potomac on Tuesday—the schooner Jane Morley —having on board a very valuable cargo, intended for the rebels. Among other things, were a number of gifts to Mr. and Mrs. Jeff. Davis from their admirers in Washington.

The Manchester Examiner and Times makes a statement of the last financial undertaking of the rebels in England, differing from that which we have already received. It says: "A prospectus is in private circulation of 'The London and Confederate States Bank,' with a proposed capital of £2,000,000, in £100 shares. No names are appended, but the object is distinctly stated to be to render the South able to carry on their financial and export operations entirely independent of New-York."

THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

In the Senate yesterday, the bill relative to the heads of Departments in New-York was ordered to a third reading; also, the bill to facilitate the acquisition of lands by the Croton Water Board; also, the bill incorporating the Dry-Goods Clerks' Association. The bill allowing the soldiers of the State in the service of the United States to vote by proxy was passed, by a vote of 19 to 7, after some debate.

In the Assembly, several bills were passed—among them the Supply bill, 91 to 14; the bill authorizing the extension of certain streets in New-York, and the Albany and Susquehanna Railroad bill, 72 to 28. The Senate resolution, providing for the payment of the interest on the State debt, held by foreigners, in coin or its equivalent, was adopted, 63 to 21. Both Houses held evening sessions.

GENERAL NEWS.

Some further European intelligence by the City of Washington is given this morning. An important engagement is announced to have taken place between the Russians and the Poles, at Loudek, on the 16th ult., in which the Russians were defeated and compelled to retreat. Advices from Japan state that the notice who had been connected with foreigners had been degraded, and this measure was supposed to be preliminary to a repudiation of all treaties concluded by the Japanese Government with foreign Powers.

An arrival from Havana brings us advices to the 23d ult. There was nothing later from Mexico. Rebel blockade runners continued to arrive from Mobile and other ports. The English steamer Neptune had also come in from St. Thomas—supposed to be intended to run the blockade.

A meeting of citizens, property owners and others was held at Niblo's Saloon last evening, to inaugurate a more vigorous opposition to the Broadway Railroad scheme. A Committee of thirty-four was appointed from among the most wealthy owners of property on Broadway, with a view of taking active measures.

The Boston Transcript understands that several of the banks in that city have under consideration the subject of reorganizing under the National Banking law.

It is said that the prize steamer Peterhof will probably be released. Her clearance papers appear to be all right, and the most that can be said against her is that she had a rebel Colonel and a rebel mail on board.

The United States transport Massachusetts, which arrived at Philadelphia, on Monday, from Port Royal, brought a number of articles which had been recovered from the wreck of the British steamer Queen of the Wave, run ashore by the United States gunboat Conemaugh, near Charleston. They were given in charge of the Marshal.

The price of Gold went up yesterday 3 ⅌ cent, closing at 4 o'clock 158¾ ⅌ cent. Exchange unsettled. Stocks generally firm. Money easy. Late in the afternoon Gold fell to 156 ⅌ cent.

Breadstuffs and Provisions attracted more attention yesterday, and the principal articles were quoted decidedly firmer. A moderate business was reported in Groceries, Hay, Hops and Whisky, at rising prices. Cotton was in fair request and much dearer. The auction sales of desirable Dry Goods here were quite successful, particularly the sales of domestic cotton fabrics, at which advanced rates were obtained. The freight engagements were somewhat heavier. Other branches of trade presented no really new feature.

Intrigues of Foreign Ministers.

Some weeks since we intimated that the French Minister had been conferring with prominent and influential politicians concerning foreign mediation as a means of ending the war. The suggestion was repelled in various quarters as wholly incredible and as involving a serious aspersion upon the character of the representative of a friendly Power. Our venerable confrère, (it would scarcely be accurate to say cotemporary,) the National Intelligencer, was especially solemn and impressive, having the dignity of the State Department as well as its own to protect in this emergency: and it read the Press in general a grave lecture on the serious impropriety of so far impugning the character of foreign ministers as to deem them capable of such offences against the proprieties of their position.

We trust that these sensitive gentlemen have read and duly weighed the letter of Lord Lyons to Earl Russell, dated the 17th of November last. That epistle may convince them that foreign Ministers are not always restrained by considerations of propriety from meddling with our politics, and that we did them no injustice in our recent strictures upon their action. Lord Lyons has no hesitation in exposing his own connection with the party intrigues and movements of the day. He holds conferences with the leaders of the "Conservative" party, is made the repository of their most secret purposes and plans, concerts with them the measures calculated to secure their common ends, and denounces the Administration with a vigor and vehemence which keep pace admirably with their own. He receives from them pertinent and useful hints as to the necessity of choosing the proper time for making offers of mediation, and advises the English Government against such a step at the time of writing, lest it should have a damaging effect on the prospects of the "Peace party."

Lord Lyons would seem, from his own statement, to be residing in this country as British Minister to the Peace party, rather than to the Government of the United States. In his interview with the President he "gladly shunned all allusion to foreign intervention" —reserving that topic for his free conversations with the "conservative" leaders who will be very glad when they come into power to avail themselves of such intervention, if necessary, to end the war. He talked freely with them upon this subject—but avoided it altogether in his conferences with the President and Secretary of State. In other words, Lord Lyons, as the representative of Great Britain, enters into discussions and political arrangements with the leaders of a political party in this country, calculated and intended not only to defeat the policy of the Administration, but to destroy the Government to which he is accredited. The whole drift of his efforts, as shown by his own letter, is to bring about the termination of the war, even at the cost of disunion; and for the accomplishment of this end he allies himself with the leaders of the Opposition party. They make him the confidant of their wishes and plans, and he lends them in return his advice and aid as to the best means of carrying them into effect.

What the President may think of all this we have no means of knowing. It certainly seems to us a wide departure, on the part of Lord Lyons, from the line of his duty and from the proprieties of his position. It is, doubtless, quite in keeping with the peculiar "neutrality" which the British Government professes to observe in this contest, and which consists mainly in giving all possible encouragement to the rebel cause consistent with an appearance of friendship to the United States. Lord Lyons undoubtedly in this faithfully serves the Government which he represents. But it seems to us scarcely consistent with the interests or the dignity of our Government that he should be allowed thus openly to intrigue with party leaders for the accomplishment of party ends.

The Southern Confederacy and the Slave Trade.—The dispatch from the rebel Secretary of State to Mr. Lamar, which we published yesterday, is a document of considerable significance. It relates to the prospective opening of the African slave-trade, and discloses the fact that the new Confederacy is likely to encounter a good deal of embarrassment from the susceptibility of foreign nations on this subject.

It will be remembered by all who are conversant with the political history of the past ten or fifteen years, that the prohibition of the African slave-trade by the National Congress was always held up by Southern extremists as among the leading causes of complaint against the Union. While the North and West were constantly receiving enormous supplies of labor by immigration, the South was cut off from that resource by law. In their commercial conventions and through their leading periodicals, Southern statesmen constantly insisted on the reopening of the slave-trade as absolutely essential to the prosperity of the South. When secession was resolved upon, it was seen that the hostility of foreign nations to the restoration of this trade would be too great to be successfully resisted or safely defied, and the agents of the rebellion were therefore instructed everywhere to deny that any purpose of reopening it was entertained; and a clause was put into the Confederate Constitution imposing upon the Confederate Government the duty of making laws for its prohibition.

It seems now that foreign nations, when the subject of recognition is broached at all, insist upon treaty stipulations against the reopening of the slave-trade; and such stipulations the rebel Government is not prepared to give. Mr. Benjamin enters into a long argument to show, in the first place, that the Government has no power, under the Constitution, to enter into any such engagements—and secondly, that they are not necessary. Whether these assurances will satisfy the foreign Powers by which this point has been raised, remains to be seen. But the letter of Mr. Benjamin makes one thing very clear,—and that is, that the Confederate Government does not intend to trammel, by any treaty stipulations whatever, the future action of the Slave States on this subject.

The Duplicity of the Copperheads.

A base purpose is never honorably pursued. The end and the means are always of a piece. After the interviews with "several of the leaders of the Democratic party" Lord Lyons writes, "at the bottom I thought I perceived a desire to put an end to the war, even at the risk of losing the Southern States altogether; but it was plain that it was not thought prudent to avow this desire." The British Minister, with his diplomatic appreciation of motives, had no difficulty in apprehending the real spirit and intent of the party managers closeted with him. Their errand was not at all to discourage foreign intervention; they simply wanted the thing prudently managed—or in other words, they wanted time first, to blind, cajole and circumvent the people. "At the present moment, therefore," says his lordship, "the chiefs of the conservative party call loudly for a more vigorous prosecution of the war, and reproach the Government with slackness, as well as with want of success in its military measures."

That is precisely the truth. These hypocritical wretches sought to consummate their infamous plots for peace by redoubling their clamors for vigorous war. With a heart fully settled upon yielding to treason, they yet affected a sacred passion for an annihilating onset upon traitors. Their special prototype is Sempronius, whose "Voice is still for war. Gods!" is yet the favorite declamation of the schoolboys. The fellow who was so furious to > —"rise at once, gird on our swords,

> And, at the head of our remaining troops,
> Attack the foe, break through the thick array
> Of his thronged legions, and charge home upon them," was at that very hour Cæsar's secret adherent and conspiring to betray Rome. The "Democratic leaders" have improved the lesson well. In public they have ranted consumedly, while in their private soliloquies they never omit to remind themselves it is

> "Cæsar's favor
> That showers down greatness on his friends."

If these persons would plainly own themselves still in the service of the Southern oligarchy, they might, for all the harm they could do, be simply ticketed and dismissed. It is their duplicity that makes them dangerous. They decoy the confidence of the people for the sole purpose of betraying it. In the name of "a more vigorous war" they profess to be stirring up the Government, when their real object is to stir up the people against the Government, and thus open the way to a tame surrender. They carried on this game before the Fall elections, and with too much success. They have kept it up to the best of their ability since; but by this time they have been pretty well found out. The people, not having had the advantage of either the diplomatic training of Lord Lyons, or of confidential interviews with "the Democratic leaders," were not so quick in apprehending the real aims. What was apparent to Lord Lyons in the middle of November—"the desire to put an end to the war, even at the risk of losing the Southern States altogether"—it has taken till nearly the 1st of April for the people to be thoroughly convinced of. But there is doubt no longer. The treacherous designs of these leaders have become perfectly notorious. The people hear the treachery in the hiss; they feel it in the venom; they see it in the creeping, insidious movement. By one of these infallible popular instincts, which are so quick to affix a fit designation, they have given these creatures a name that will stand. The Copperheads of 1863 will henceforth be known to every political vocabulary; and will be defined as the generic expression for everything faithless and detestable.

Not only the Northern people understand the essential vileness of these lurking traitors, but the rebels themselves recognize it, and repel it. There may be some manliness of spirit in even a bad cause. The faculties of admiring and of despising are not ousted from the human soul by the mere fact that the will has consented to a criminal act. The rebels can despise yet. And they well know whom to despise as whom to hate. The true-hearted men of the North they hate with perfect hatred; the false-hearted men of the North they contemn with perfect contempt. The last Richmond Enquirer which has come North, thus fitly speaks of these "Democratic leaders:" "The Democratic party, neutral as it was in principle, false to both sides, and wholly indifferent to the morals of either of the opposing communities, placed itself between, raised the banner of 'spoils,' and—we all know the rest. The idea of that odious party coming to life again makes us shiver. Its foul breath is malaria, its touch is death. Give us the open foeman: let him be as furious and greedy as you will. Let our enemy appear as an exterminating Yankee host, we pray, and not as a Democratic Convention. Let him take any shape but that!" All the organs of rebel sentiment abound with similar expressions of loathing. It would be a thousand times less dishonorable for the rebels to surrender to the old flag without terms, when it shall be no longer physically possible to hold out against it, than it would be to consort with these Northern recreants and seek through them to patch up a mock reconciliation in advance. The Southern leaders have committed themselves to a desperate venture; and, like all such men, they will never desist until absolutely overpowered and disabled. We may rely upon it, they will fight the men of the North face to face as long as they can stand; and, with the same spirit, will tread the creeping things of the North under their feet. When they yield, they will yield to fidelity and courage; never to perfidy or poltroonery.

The time has passed when there need be any fear that these Copperheads will seriously affect the contest. They have become too well understood to make that any longer possible. But the breed will not die out. In fact an atmosphere pretty well heated with scorn rather agrees with such cold-blooded natures. Walking up Broadway you occasionally notice a copperhead breastpin. Mark how shamelessly the creature exposes his crest. Probably you will not see the last of it till the last rebel submits. Black Cockades insulted the public eye up to the flash of the last British gun. We believe they were never thicker than during the last month of the war. The more absolute the impotence, the ranker the impudence—a very common thing in human affairs, as everybody knows. It is not worth while to fret over that. The only excuse for any concern about the matter is the scandal which it brings upon the history of the day. It would be far more agreeable to have the entire record of the Northern people, in this struggle for their country, unblemished. But a thing like that never has been, and, short of the millenium, never will be. Until human nature changes, there can be no cause so sacred as to unite all hearts. It is not possible that the noble and the vile should respond to the same motive. The man of soul will of course be faithful; but it is just as certain that "the worm will do his kind."

The Rebels Resisting Conscription.

It was long a pleasant delusion of Southern rebels and their Northern sympathizers, that the rebellion could never be conquered, because the Southern people would be fighting for their homes and their independence, while the Northern soldiers would be merely fighting for an "idea" and their pay. It was held that the Southern armies would always be filled by the irrepressible ardor of the people, while the Northern armies, after the first fever of excitement and passion, would hardly be kept in skeleton form by conscription.

The result has established the contrary of these calculations. The rebel Government was at the first driven to resort to conscription, and its endeavors in this line have failed to keep its armies up to the capacity of effective defence. Its necessities have added constantly-increasing severity and rigor to measures of conscription; and the Southern people, so far from welcoming the duty of "self-defence," are proving restive beyond any Northern precedent, under the sacrifices they are called on to make. The papers of Alabama and Georgia have contained frequent accounts of alarming defection among the people, as manifested by obstinate aversion to sustain the war; and a Georgia paper recently declared that there are "more reconstructionists (Unionists) in Georgia than there are Abolitionists in Massachusetts." A number of counties in Northern Georgia, we have long known, from rebel sources, are filled with men who have fled from Southern homes to escape the draft, and are armed to resist it. And we now learn through reliable sources that the rebel conscription has utterly failed in Tennessee and Western North Carolina.

There are several deductions to be made from these established facts, that will be of future use to politicians and conspirators. The first is, that nearly all men who have "families and homes" prefer peace to war, and if neither family nor home has ever been wronged or invaded, they do not appreciate the necessity of fighting about it. When war is only a speculation and a possible thing, much gasconade may be indulged in; but when it is a present and a horrid reality, prudent thoughts resume sway, and men are inclined to "hide themselves till the tyranny be overpast." Southern leaders realize this fact in the unexpected opposition of their people to being drafted into a war against a Government that never touched their "families" or their "homes." The only molestation of their lives has come from the cruel conscription agents of the rebel Confederacy.

Another valuable deduction from these facts is, that men will fight, fiercely and persistently, for an "idea." The idea of nationality, in many natures, rises infinitely higher than any other of mere earthly scope and consideration. In this very war, homes in the South have been sacrificed, families in the South disowned, and arms in the field been borne by brother against brother and father against son, in sacred allegiance to an idea—the grand idea that Republican liberty, the welfare of the people of all the States and of the human race, are dependent on the continued unity of the American Government. The rebels are schismatics, separatists, destructives—their "idea" can only be popular with perverse, fallen, and desperate natures. The loyalists are for unity, strength, harmony and grandeur, and their "idea" takes hold of all the noblest, purest, and therefore most enduring passions of human existence.

The First Conviction of a Traitor.—The State of Kentucky is the first, we believe, to register a civil verdict against the crime of treason, since the great rebellion broke out. The victim is Thomas C. Shackleff, of Meade County, in that State. The case deserves special notice from the historic interest it will possess.

Shackleff was a man of bad morals and desperate character, who went off to the rebel side in 1861, under the lead of Gen. Buckner, the Cataline of Kentucky. He was connected with Forrest's command, entered Kentucky with Bragg's army, left it and went into Meade County, where he arrested the Sheriff and Assessor of the County, and took them as prisoners to the rebel camp. He was known to have killed a Union man in the State under circumstances of peculiar atrocity.

Shackleff was recently arrested by the Meade County Home Guards, indicted and tried in the United States Circuit at Louisville for treason. He was prosecuted by District-Attorney Thomas E. Bramlette, and ably defended by Wm. F. Bullitt and Isaac D. Brown, Esqs. The verdict of guilty was promptly rendered by the Kentucky jury, and Shackleff will undoubtedly be hung—the first traitor to meet a traitor's fitting doom.

This case affords gratifying evidence of the purification of public sentiment in Kentucky, which consigns a traitor to the gallows, and of the firm establishment of national power, under which the civil law is found adequate to punish the highest crime that can be committed against a State.

The Conscription Act.—A few days since, in replying to the very flagrant misrepresentation of the Conscription act contained in the Mozart Hall resolutions—that every man who could not pay $300 for a substitute would be compelled to serve in the ranks—we fell into the error of supposing, from the terms of the law, that the Secretary of War could vary this amount to meet the circumstances of each particular case. The copy of the law which we had before us at the time of writing, did not contain the clause which requires the rate of payment to be uniform for each State, though we find that this requirement is embodied in the law. But it still remains perfectly true, that the Secretary may fix the rate for any State at a lower figure than $300, if he chooses to do so. We copy in another column a letter addressed to Ex-Mayor Woon by Senator Wilson, who was Chairman of the Military Committee in the Senate, upon this subject. It sets forth the provisions of this act very clearly, and vindicates it completely from the objections urged against it by the resolutions of Mozart Hall.

FROM THE STATE CAPITAL.

The Policy of the Democratic Leaders—The Difference Between the Beginning and Close of the Session—Innovations in Legislation—The Interest on the State Debt—Allowing Soldiers to Vote, &c.

From Our Own Correspondent.

Albany, Wednesday, April 1, 1863.

If we had permitted ourselves to believe half that was said by the Democratic leaders, particularly in the Legislature, in the early days of the session, we would by this time have suffered no small degree of disappointment. Taking what they said in connection with Gov. Seymour's Message, and their swaggering manner, we had a right to suppose that long before this time the State would be in an attitude of open defiance to the General Government, and perhaps a distinct Republic proclaimed in alliance with the Southern Confederacy, and that New-England would have been driven into the sea, or compelled to join Canada. What Gov. Seymour and his party would not do was hard to say. At any rate, they were going to take the General Government under their schooling, and the war, if not conducted according to their options, would be stopped altogether. Things had been going wrong long enough, and they were going to right them. So far from being a causeless war, it was a quarrel we had provoked, and they were going to have proper restitution made. If the Government undertook to make any more arrests, Gov. Seymour would arrest the Government. "It is a game two can play at," said Mr. Dean. There was no telling with Gov. Seymour at the head, and his valorous supporters to back him, what might not happen. And so prudent men held themselves prepared for almost anything.

But nothing has happened, except Gov. Seymour has subsided into the common sort, and very respectable person that he always was. The grand things said by him and his friends in the Legislature, have gone out in smoke. Nobody has been arrested in retaliation. The General Government still exists, stronger than ever since the war commenced. For all the aid and comforts the fathed Democracy undertook to give it, the rebellion is weaker than at any former time, while the general condition of affairs in the Governor's party resembles very much that supposed to exist when men butt their heads against very hard and very thick stone walls, and subside under the lessons of that sort of experience.

The session is drawing to a close, and no one can help observing the change that ten weeks have wrought. Mr. T. C. Fields does not swagger as he did, nor Mr. Dean predict or threaten as it was his wont; and, if the rest of those who tried to out-Herod Herod think at all on the subject, they probably wish they had not done it. The truth is, the great heart of the people beat right on; the great wheels of the Government and the power whose mission and duty it was to crush out this rebellion have kept right ahead, and rose over these men, and all like them, here and elsewhere, like so many weak straws, whose fragments are not worth removing.

In view of the movements of Fernando Wood, Tammany Hall, in conformity with a recent consultation here, will shortly make a demonstration, and unless Wood succumbs—which would be the first time—Tammany and Mozart will stand before the country with their old rivalries.

On a question of privilege in the House this morning, it came out that the Investigating Committee desire that the testimony, or any part of it, should not be reported before it has been submitted to the House—a number of gross misrepresentations having been made. Mr. T. C. Fields complained that the correspondent of the New-York Times had represented that he had, on one occasion, asked a postponement, which he said was not the fact. That statement was made on what was deemed the very best, but it now appears mistaken, evidently. I cheerfully give the correction, and hope that the mistakes made by others will be as promptly corrected.

The tendency in legislation to schemes of innovation, not to say private advantage, under the pretence of improvement or reform, is apparent, and not unfrequently such a guise covers some job which, honestly avowed, would have little consideration. Thus the plea of the public welfare is made to answer for the sake of many a project, in reality conceived for private advantage. The "act creating a State Reporter for the Supreme Court," to be appointed by the Governor, Lieutenant-Governor and Attorney-General, with a salary of $3,000 per annum, to hold his office for three years, and providing further for the publication of not exceeding three volumes, at a price not exceeding $6.50 a volume, of 800 pages, &c., &c., has been on the Assembly files a month. I do not understand that it is in the offering of any great necessity, or that it is in obedience to an application from disinterested sources. The Constitutional Convention, which will meet in a short time, would seem to be the proper tribunal to refer minor questions touching the Judiciary; at any rate, additions, modifications, and changes of every sort, it would seem, should be made only as the expressed wish of the legal profession, and then after mature deliberation.

The quarterly interest on the State debt fell due to-day. Last evening a concurrent resolution was offered in the Assembly by Mr. Dean, and passed, directing the Comptroller to pay the said interest in coin, except on stock held by suspended banks. In the Senate, last evening, a concurrent resolution was passed, directing the Comptroller to pay in coin on all stock held by foreigners. The House resolution was not acted on in the Senate last evening, though received before the adjournment, and the Senate resolution was not received in the House till this morning, when it was laid over under the rule, but subsequently called up under the suspension of the rule.

The aggregate amount of interest due to-day is $302,634 11, the premium on which in gold would be $177,000. The whole amount of the State debt is $21,000,000, of which but $3,000,000 is held abroad, $10,000,000 by individuals; all the rest is held by banks or trustees, whose interest, if paid in coin, would be paid on $3,000,000 sooner. The Assembly resolution, on $13,000,000.

In the Senate it was better if it would barely discredit the Government currency to discriminate in this manner. What was tendered for Government dues, and was the only currency of the people, should be received by our own citizens holding the stock, and which is the currency in which the canal tolls and all other State revenue is received. With the foreign holders the case was different, and there was a manifest propriety in paying them coin.

In the House, when the Senate resolution was called up, Mr. Dean moved his last night's resolution substantially as a substitute, and supported his views in some remarks. Mr. Duell supported the Senate resolution, providing coin to foreign holders. Mr. Van Buren moved to amend by directing payment in coin on all the stock by whomsoever held. This was lost—Ayes 27, Nays 69. Mr. Dean's amendment was lost—Ayes 52, Nays 66. The Senate resolution, that is, the coin to be paid to persons residing outside the United States only, was adopted—Ayes 68, Nays 21.

The vote in the House on these several propositions, with the exception of the last, assumed very much of a party character, a circumstance to which the message of Gov. Seymour, last evening, earnestly urging payment in gold, contributed in no small degree. In the Senate, the vote had little party resemblance.

The Susquehanna Railroad bill reached its third reading in the House, today, it having previously passed the Senate. It will now go to the Executive Chamber, for the fifth time, I believe. What the action of Gov. Seymour will be, is, of course, unknown; but the friends of the bill profess to be confident that the signature will be appended to it without delay.

Mr. Munson, of the Banking Committee, to which was referred the communication of the Banking Department in answer to a resolution as to what legislation is necessary to make the Banking laws of our State conform with the late act of Congress, reported yesterday morning in favor of the passage of the following bill:

Section 1. It shall be lawful for persons to organize associations for the purpose of carrying on the business of banking within this State, under and in pursuance of the act of Congress approved February 25, 1863, entitled "an act to provide a National currency, secured by a pledge of United States Stocks, and to provide for the circulation and redemption thereof." The provisions of chapter twenty, article three, part one, of the Revised Statutes shall not apply to the associations formed as aforesaid, nor to the circulating notes issued in pursuance of the said act of Congress by such Associations.

Sec. 2. It shall be lawful for any Corporation or Joint Stock Association for banking purposes, or individual banker, authorized by the laws of this State, and now in operation, to avail itself of, and to act under, the provisions contained in Section 21 of the said act of Congress, and to issue and circulate the notes received as therein provided, in the same manner as if issued and circulated under the laws of the State.

But such Corporations, Joint Stock Associations for banking purposes, or individual banker, shall in the quarterly statement made to the Superintendent of the Banking Department, in addition to what is now required by law, report the amount of its notes in circulation, and the amount thereof on hand, and the amount received, and the amount paid to it in accordance with the provisions of the said Section 62.

And a compliance by such Corporation or Joint Stock Association for banking purposes, or individual banker, with the provisions of the aforesaid act of Congress for the redemption of its notes in circulation, shall be deemed and taken, and is hereby declared to be a sufficient redemption of said notes, and a sufficient security for the redemption thereof:

Provided, however, that the stockholders in any corporation, Joint Stock Association for banking purposes, or individual banker, which shall avail itself of the privileges conferred by this section, shall be individually responsible to the extent of their respective shares of the stock in any such corporation, association or firm, for all the debts and liabilities of every kind, (including the notes issued, loaned and put in circulation by such corporation or association, under the said act, and by virtue of this section.

Sec. 3. From and after the passage of this act, the securities hereafter to be deposited with the Superintendent of the Banking Department for notes for circulation to be issued to any Corporation or Joint Stock Association for banking purposes, or individual banking shall be stocks of the State of New-York, or the United States in the same proportions, that is to say: Not to exceed seventy-five per centum in United States stocks, and not less than twenty-five per centum in stocks of this State, both stocks to be equal to, or be made equal in market value, at the interest at the rate of six per centum per annum; and securities now held by the Banking Department, to be of the same character of United States and stocks of this State, may be adjusted on the application of any such association, as to be in accordance with the provisions of this section.

Sec. 4. Nothing in this act contained shall be construed to release the stockholders of any Corporation or Joint Stock Association formed for banking purposes, from the liability imposed in article eight, section twelve, of the Constitution of this State.

Sec. 5. The Legislature may at any time amend, alter or repeal this act.

Sec. 6. This act shall take effect immediately.

Indigent Families of Volunteers.

Mr. F. E. Hawkes introduced in the Assembly the following bill:

An Act to provide for the relief of indigent families of volunteers:

The Supervisor, Town Clerk and Justices of the Peace in each of the towns of this State shall, ex officio, constitute a board of relief for their respective towns, and such board shall have power from time to time to grant such relief to indigent families of volunteers from this State, residing in such towns as shall seem necessary, and the amount of such relief shall be a town charge upon the several towns in which the towns shall be granted, and shall be assessed, collected and paid in the same manner as other town charges now authorized by law are assessed, collected and paid.

AMUSEMENTS.

ACADEMY OF MUSIC.—The patronage of the public for Maggi and Masaniello, now the other artists of Mr. MAPLESON'S troupe, was again demonstrated last evening, when "Norma" was repeated, for the first time, to a house said to be the best of the season. The music of this work is certainly no longer attractive in itself, and must derive any fresh importance that it has from the extraordinary vitality infused into it by the artists we have named. The applause was so enthusiastic last evening, and the condition of all the singers so constants that we shall not be surprised if "Norma" attracts several more crowded houses.

The performances here are suspended until Saturday next, when there will be an extraordinary matinée, at which the entire opera of "Linda di Chamounix" and the second act of "Masaniello" will be given. In the interpretation of these two works all the artists of the company, without exception, will take part. It is an opportunity that may not occur again.

Rebels in National Uniform.

The following order has been issued by Gen. SCHENCK:

HEADQUARTERS MIDDLE DEPARTMENT, EIGHTH ARMY CORPS, BALTIMORE, Md., March 30, 1863.

GENERAL ORDERS, No. 31.—I. Officers and soldiers of the army of the so-called "Confederate States," having, in many instances, by capture, or by stripping the bodies of the dead, possessed themselves of uniform clothing and equipments of officers and soldiers of the United States, which articles of uniform they have worn and used to aid them in making their way within the lines of this army, and to enable them to approach and deceive, and sometimes make prisoners of those who did not recognize them, by reason of such disguise, as enemies; it is ordered that any officer or soldier, who shall be found and taken, either within the lines or otherwise, wearing any article of clothing, or any accoutrement, belonging to the usual uniform of a Union officer or soldier, or to make such rebel officer or soldier, or such an officer or soldier of the United States, shall not be held or treated as a prisoner of war, but shall be treated and dealt with as a spy. And proof of the possession and wearing, by a rebel officer or soldier, of such Union uniform, shall be taken as sufficient evidence in itself of his character as a spy, by any court-martial or military commission, before which he may be ordered for trial.

II. Maj.-Gen. R. H. MILROY, commanding the Second Division of this Army Corps, is directed to communicate copies of this order, by flag of truce, to the commander of the rebel forces in the Valley of the Shenandoah.

By command of Maj.-Gen. SCHENCK.

LETTER FROM GEN. HALLECK.

HEADQUARTERS OF THE ARMY, WASHINGTON, D. C., March 20, 1863.

Brig.-Gen. G. Wright, Commanding Department of the Pacific, San Francisco, Cal.:

GENERAL: I have this day received your letter of Feb. 28, inclosing Col. P. E. Connor's report of his severe battle and splendid victory on Bear River, Washington Territory. After a forced march of one hundred and forty miles in mid-winter, and through deep snows, in which 16 of his men were disabled by frozen feet, he and his gallant band of only two hundred attacked three hundred Indian warriors in their stronghold, and after a hard fought battle of four hours, destroyed the entire band, leaving two hundred and twenty-four dead upon the field. Our loss in the battle was fourteen killed and forty-nine wounded. Col. Connor and the brave Third California Infantry deserve the highest praise for their gallant and heroic conduct. Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

(Signed) H. W. HALLECK,
General-in-Chief.

It has been used in thousands of cases where the hair was coming out in handfuls, and has never failed to arrest its decay, and to promote a healthy and vigorous growth. It is at the same time unrivaled as a dressing for the hair. A single application will render it soft and glossy for several days. Prepared by JOSEPH BURNETT & CO., Boston.

Premium on Gold.—The Subscriber, who cannot change his prices with the fluctuations of gold without incurring enormous expense in advertising the changes, is compelled to sell his Pens at old prices. Thinking his customers entitled to the benefit of the premium on gold, rather than the Wall-street dealers of the best currency this country ever had, he now offers to all remitting the amount of their orders in gold, the full premium in this City on the day when received. In this way he hopes to do the country and his customers some good without injuring himself, for the Mentor Pen cannot be made without gold. When Paper Money is sent, United States is preferred over any other. A. MORTON,

NEW TESTIMONIALS

From Rev. John Nott, D. D., Professor in Union College, Schenectady.

SCHENECTADY, Jan. 27, 1863.

Dr. Lightbill:

SIR: Having been cured by you of a discharge in an ear, which has been very offensive of late, and so far back as I can remember, always more or less so; and having been entirely restored to hearing since under your care, I feel that I cannot withhold this acknowledgment from any use it may be to others, especially as I have applied in vain to my family physician and other physicians of reputation. Yours, truly, JOHN NOTT.

No. 11 DEY-ST., NEW-YORK, Jan. 8, 1863.

DR. E. R. LIGHTHILL—Dear Sir: It is with the kindest feelings toward you, and hoping to do service to some one who is afflicted, that I forward the inclosed document to you.

To whom it may concern: I am personally acquainted with the success which attended Dr. Lighthill's treatment in a case of discharge from the ear and chronic inflammation of the throat, and would be pleased to give further information on application. V. D. W. WEEKS.

INSTITUTION FOR THE DEAF AND DUMB, NEW-YORK, Jan. 1, 1863.

I have pleasure in testifying to the skill and kind attention of Dr. Lighthill, who has relieved me from a troublesome deafness, brought on by a severe cold. I shall be happy to answer any inquiries made by persons seeking information, at my address, as above.
ROBERT OLIVE, Book-keeper.

I placed my wife under the care of Dr. Lighthill, for deafness in one ear of nearly three years' standing, accompanied by constant noises. I am happy to state that her hearing is now entirely restored, and the noises removed. Those residing in New-York who are desirous of further information may apply to my brother-in-law, Capt. William Edwards, at No. 66 East Thirty-fourth-st., who is acquainted with the circumstances of the case.
FRANCIS GOULDY.

Newtown, No. 79 Grand-st., Dec. 22, 1862.

I have been suffering for some time with noise in my head and deafness. Having applied to Dr. Lighthill, I have great pleasure in saying that he has completely relieved me, so that now I can hear as well as ever, and am not troubled with the noise in my head.

I may also mention that a young man named Henry Lewis, staying with me, was also afflicted in a similar manner, and Dr. Lighthill was equally successful in his case.
JOHN MURDOCK, No. 197 Fulton-st.

BROOKLYN, Jan. 2, 1863.

This may certify that, having been afflicted during the year 1858 with severe and almost total deafness, and having tried the ordinary medical and surgical aid, under the care of those esteemed as eminent practitioners, I was induced at last to put myself under the care of Dr. E. R. Lighthill. His treatment was brief and successful. I was completely restored, and the cure is apparently permanent. I have all confidence in Dr. L.'s skill and integrity in the diseases he makes specialties.

Dr. Lighthill:

DEAR SIR: I am pleased to be able to testify to the efficacy of your treatment in the case of my wife, whose hearing in one ear you succeeded in restoring, after treatment of various kinds had been applied in vain. I may furthermore state that her hearing remains good up to the present time, though it is several years, since she has been under your care. E. CLAYBURGH, No. 141 Duane-st.

No. 43 FIFTH-ST., NEW-YORK, June 26, 1862.

DR. LIGHTHILL—Dear Sir: I take pleasure in testifying to the remarkable skill and judgment you displayed in the case of my daughter, who had been partially deaf, accompanied by discharge from the ears, since early infancy, and is now, thanks to your treatment, able to hear as well as any one, while her ears are free from the discharge. Although it is nearly two years since she has been under your care, her hearing remains as good, and her ears as sound, as the day she left you. G. S. HOLLY.

CATARRH CURED.

From Rev. P. S. Russell, Lynn, Mass.

I have been much troubled with catarrh of the worst type for some twenty years. It gradually grew worse, producing cough and hoarseness, destroying the sense of smell, and breaking down my general health to such a degree as to compel me to resign my pastorate, and suspend public speaking.

I made diligent use of the usual remedies, such as snuffs of different kinds, nitrate of silver, tar water, olive tar and inhalations, but without any very salutary effects. Last Summer I heard of Dr. Lighthill's successful mode of treating catarrh, visited him, and put myself under his treatment. I began immediately to improve, and this improvement has gone on to the present time. My catarrh has gradually melted away, my cough has disappeared, my voice has become natural, and I am once more able to preach the blessed Gospel. Let me advise all troubled with catarrhal difficulties to apply to Dr. Lighthill.
P. S. RUSSELL.

LYNN, Mass., Feb. 1, 1863.

No. 740 WATER-ST., NEW-YORK, June 6, 1862.

Dr. Lighthill has succeeded in completely restoring my hearing, which was seriously impaired, although previous to applying to him I was treated by several physicians without the least benefit. Any further information I should be pleased to render on application to me at my residence, No. 173 Second-st., Brooklyn, E. D., or at my place of business, No. 740 Water-st.
WM. H. WATERBURY.

METROPOLITAN HOTEL, NEW-YORK, April 1, 1862.

DEAR SIR: I take much pleasure in testifying to the professional skill exhibited by you in your treatment of a case of severe inflammation of the throat and ear with which I have lately been afflicted. Upon coming under your charge I was immediately relieved and speedily cured of a most aggravated complaint, which several physicians had previously sought in vain to mitigate.

As I am somewhat of a stranger in the City, I would state that you are at liberty to substantiate my statements, if necessary, by reference to my relatives, Mr. A. V. Stout, President of the Shoe and Leather Bank of New-York, and to Mr. Everett Clapp, of the Western Transportation Company, No. 3 Coenties-slip.

With much esteem, I am, sir,
Your obedient servant,
FRED. M. HANKS.

A NEW STORY, BY SYLVANUS COBB, JR., ENTITLED

THE FORTUNES OF CONRAD:

A ROMANCE OF ANCIENT BRITTANY.

In the LEDGER for next week, which will be ready on Monday, at 12 o'clock, we shall commence a story, under the above title, by our universally popular contributor, SYLVANUS COBB, JR. The incidents and scenes of the story are cast in that fearful, romantic and heroic period of the world's history, with which Mr. Cobb is so familiar. The hero of the tale is one of those stalwart, lion-hearted, but staunchly persuasive whom capitals are historical, and to whose courage and virtue the world is indebted for its early advancement from barbarism to civilization—from paganism to Christianity—and who were as devoted in love as they were gallant in war!

EXTRACT FROM PREFACE.

"Taken from the lips of the distinguished Naturalist, as he addressed an audience of Working Men, they have a charm, a directness, and a simplicity which belonged to the circumstances of their delivery. In this form the following Lectures are incomparable. Dealing with the most abstruse and fundamental questions of mind and organization, these subjects are, nevertheless, presented in so lucid and attractive a manner as to impress vividly the commonest imagination."

DR. HUNTER'S RED DROP RESTORES the vigor of youth in four days, Restores manhood to the most shattered system. No. 3 Division-st., New-York, the only place. Beware of bogus Dr. Hunters. The City is full of knaves, up to every trick to rob Dr. HUNTER'S unsuspecting victims. Dr. Hunter is the only reliable physician. He had no other office but No. 3 Division-st. Established in 1826.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU—SOLD by H. O. OAKLEY, No. 11 Park-row.

PRIVATE CONSULTATION.—DR. HUNTER has, for thirty years, confined his attention to diseases of a certain class, in which he has treated no less than thirty thousand cases, without an instance of failure. His great remedy, HUNTER'S RED DROP, cures certain diseases, when regular treatment and all other remedies fail; cheap, without delay or exposure; no mercury to the patient; cures without the disgusting and sickening effects of all other remedies; cures in NOT more in less than six hours; cures without the dreadful consequent upon use of mercury, but possesses the peculiarly valuable property of purifying the system from all and poisonous taint that the disease is sure to imprint, unless this remedy is used. That is what he claims for it, and what no other will accomplish. Secrecy in this respect has become so well known, that scientific men in every department of medical knowledge begin to appreciate it, for hardly a week passes that he does not receive a visit by surgeons, chemists and physicians in regard to some pitiful patient who has exhausted the whole field of the faculty, and still the disease will appear. This remedy is so great, that there is not a quack doctor in the City that has not attempted it; and when they find their lies are not so easily swallowed, they then say that they can make it. It is a vile imitation, and cheat you out of your money. Beware of the office, No. 3 Division-st. Price $1 per bottle, or four times the quantity for $3. Pamphlets, 100 pages, 100 colored illustrations. The best work out.

OWNERS OF STEAM VESSELS ARE INVITED to meet in the Quartermaster-General's Office tenders for their charter or sale.

Senders should contain descriptions of the vessels, their dimensions, enrolled or registered tonnage, actual carrying capacity, materials, whether copper or iron fastened, whether sloops, schooners or steamers, the number of engines and boilers, and should state the price at which they are offered, for long or short charter, with the estimated value of the vessel in case of loss, or in case the Government should prefer to purchase instead of chartering.

Owners of steam vessels already in the service of the Quartermaster's Department are requested to make known to the Department any reduction in their present rates which they may be willing to grant, and also the period for which it may be offered.

All such tenders should be addressed to the Quartermaster-General of the United States at Washington, and should be indorsed,

When received they will be considered, and the Department will endeavor to reduce the heavy expenses attending army transportation, upon the ocean and the waters, by substituting, wherever it can do so, cheaper vessels of equal capacity for those now employed.

WASHINGTON CITY, March 31, 1863.

BUREAU OF ORDNANCE.—THE BUREAU is desirous of ascertaining whether rifled cannon can be made of wrought iron of sufficient and uniform endurance and economy to warrant their being preferred to guns of cast iron only, or of cast iron strengthened with wrought iron.

The said gun, when finished, to weigh about 10,000 pounds, to be rifled with a twenty-foot projectile of 100 pounds, as used in cast iron rifled cannon of like weight; to be fired 1,000 times with service charges of the same weight and kind of powder as used in the Parrott 100-pounder, viz.: 16 pounds of No. 7—without bursting, or wearing in such a manner as to cause apprehensions of bursting.

The quality of metal, price and other terms, are to be stated clearly in the proposal for market.

The Bureau reserves the right to itself of accepting or rejecting any of the proposals.

The time for receiving the proposals is limited to thirty days from date, and proposals will only be considered from persons actually engaged in the fabrication of wrought iron.

THE REBEL LOAN.

IN FRANCE.

From the Journal du Havre.

There has just appeared in this market some of the cotton bonds of the Confederate States of America. These bonds, which, as is well known, have been issued by the Government of the Southern States to create resources, by means of the cotton which still remains in the interior of the country, stipulate that in forty days after notification shall have been made by the holder to the Confederate Government, the quantity of cotton specified in the bond shall be placed at his disposal in whatever port of the Confederacy he may indicate, provided that port be not at the time in the power of the Federal forces. These bonds are, for the most part, for 25,000 pounds of cotton (about 50 bales;) the value is to be paid in cash, and is calculated at 5d. per pound, English money. The purchaser can receive the cotton in the port he fixes on, and there place it in warehouse, or export it, at his own risk and peril.

IN LONDON.

From Satterthwaite's Circular.

Considerable excitement has been caused by the introduction of a Confederate loan on the London market. The jobbers, whose business it is to deal in American securities, have declined to have anything to do with it—we think, with good reason; for, apart from any other consideration, it might prove very unpleasant for those who have American stock entered in their names, or whose business relations with New-York or other Federal cities are of any importance, if it were known that they had dealings in, or were concerned in getting up a loan to parties in rebellion against the Federal Government. The whole affair seems to us as questionable a proceeding as that of running the blockade. The market in London for American securities hardness our last remained without material fluctuation, any tendency to improvement caused by the decline of fifteen per cent in exchange at latest dates from New-York being counteracted by the supply of stock which has been forwarded here for sale and drawn out before the sudden fall in exchange took place. Hence the quotations of to-day are, with scarcely any exception, the same as those selling this day week.

From the Globe.

Numerous purchases have been made in the Confederate loan, at prices varying from 1½ to 3 per cent. premium. The closing quotations are reported at 2½ to 3½ premium. The introduction of the loan has led to very general and warm discussion in the Stock Exchange, and elicited strong party feeling. The friends of the North assert, among other arguments, that the loan will prove an additional obstacle to peace, while the Southern partisans predict the success of the operation with some confidence.

A CONFEDERATE STATES BANK.

A preliminary prospectus (without any name being attached) of "The London and Confederate States Bank" is published in the London journals. The capital is fixed at £3,000,000 sterling. The prospectus points out the certainty of the ultimate recognition of the Southern States, and the desirability of having banking facilities ready for the redemption of that trade which will be carried on through new and independent channels.

REVOLUTION IN POLAND.

A PROCLAMATION.

A Warsaw letter, of the 10th, states that the following proclamation of the revolutionary Government has been circulated there:

FELLOW-CITIZENS: When, six weeks ago, an act of unexampled oppression rendered the sufferings of the people intolerable, we called you to arms, confident in the justice of our cause. Our confidence in you has not been disappointed. The enemy, powerless and perplexed, avenges his defeats by murder and fire, and after every reverse, publishes bulletins of fabulous victories. The aid of spies and traitors has availed him nothing. He has defiled our temples, and shed innocent blood at the foot of the altar. Our clergy indignantly reject the teaching of his false prophets, and zealously aid an oppressed people. The enemy has shown to the whole world that he intended to decimate our population by a proscription under the name of recruitment. The youth of both town and country first began the struggle in which the whole nation now joins. Exhausted by the war in the East, harassed by the discontent of his own people, our enemy could not crush us by superior force, and for two years has been trying to deceive us by pretended conciliation and reforms, which some persons were disposed to consider as serious, and acted accordingly. They, however, soon discovered the cheat, and became convinced that no improvement was intended. At the present moment, not a soul believes in the honesty of Russia, or supposes that cooperating with her can benefit our country. When men of little faith doubted the possibility of successful insurrection, we persisted, and the result shows that we were right, for now every Polish soul feels the same enthusiasm, and the orders of the National Government are recognized by all. The people of the rural districts have ever been the terror of the enemy, and all the efforts made to gain their support by offering a partition of land through the organ of WISTOCKIEZ proved worse than fruitless, for it raised the question of emancipating the peasantry without proposing any definitive settlement. The National Government has therefore determined to enfranchise all the sons of our sacred soil, and to give them land, at the same time that it compensates the present owners from the Treasury of the State. The National Government takes upon itself the responsibility of executing this measure, which will for ever put an end to the animosities existing between the owners and the cultivators of the soil. This is why all the attempts to rouse peasants against the insurrection have proved abortive. The price of 5 roubles per head offered by Russia for the blood of our brethren has produced no imitation. The peasantry all join the defenders of their country, and the blood shed in the streets of Warsaw proves that our Jewish brethren also side with us! Therefore, be of good cheer! God is with us! and we have the sympathy of all good men of every land!"

THE CIRCULAR OF EARL RUSSELL.

From La Patrie.

We are informed that the circular of the English Government to its representatives to the various foreign Courts, with regard to the treaties of 1815, were the date of the 4th inst., and that its object is to remove the Cabinets of Paris, Berlin, Vienna, Madrid, Stockholm and Lisbon to support at St. Petersburgh a dispatch, addressed direct on the 31st March to Lord NAPIER by the Principal Secretary of State of Her Britannic Majesty.

We do not know whether Lord RUSSELL's circular is of a nature to provoke an official reply from the various Governments to which it has been addressed, and, consequently, whether such replies have been received at London; but we have reason to believe that M. DE BISMARK, in his conversations with Sir A. BUCHANAN, the English Minister at Berlin, did more expressed the opinion that such a step appeared to him to offer inconvenience of various descriptions. Although our information is less precise as regards the attitude of the Vienna Cabinet, we should not be astonished should Count RECHBERG on his part have expressed objections to the English Ambassador, grounded upon the peculiar position of Austria in Polish matters.

Our letters from Madrid do not inform us that Spain has as yet adhered to Lord RUSSELL's proposal. We cannot, however, fail very soon to receive precise information on the subject.

AN OFFICIAL JOURNAL.

The Provisional Government of Poland, of which LANGIEWICZ is chief, under the title of Dictator, has just decided on the creation of an official journal in the national language, and which would also contain bulletins in French, with the object of making known to Europe the truth respecting the military operations. It is to be edited at the headquarters of the Polish army.

A DISCOVERY.

WARSAW, Saturday, March 14.

The military police have just discovered that large quantities of artillery and provisions are missing from the Government depots, and that great embezzlements have taken place.

OPPOSITION TO THE BROADWAY RAILROAD.

Meeting of Property Owners and Citizens at Niblo's Saloon.

A meeting of property owners and others opposed to the Broadway Railroad scheme, was held at Niblo's Saloon last evening—several hundreds being present. Mr. BENJAMIN FRANKLIN was called to the chair.

Mr. SEWARD first spoke. He said that the opposition to the Broadway Railroad had been narrowed down to a small compass. The measure was defeated last year, but seemed likely to pass this session, so formidable was the combination in its favor. Himself and Mr. HAYNE had appeared before the Railroad Committee of the Senate and opposed the measure. They saw that the Committee had made up their minds, and had even prepared their report, so confident were they that no gentlemen would offer $2,000,000 for the grant that it was proposed to give away. The Committee had assumed that the offer was not made in good faith. Six gentlemen had then offered to take the grant and run the cars at three cents fare. But, they were told that no railroad could be profitably worked at that fare. They had found that all of the Senators from this City were in favor of the measure, and had either friends, employes or relatives in the list of those who were to own the grant. He denounced the scheme as one of villainy and plunder, giving the control of 25 miles of our principal thoroughfares for nothing. The object of this meeting was to get all the men interested in the matter of preventing the scheme to take action. He believed that it was intended to carry the scheme through by corrupt means. He thought it would have immense weight if those present would make their appearance at Albany to oppose the scheme. There were names before the Legislature opposing the scheme representing $50,000,000. But, it was necessary for those opposed to it to do more than this; for, if the measure was passed, they would find it difficult to free themselves from it. (Applause.)

Mr. E. HAMILTON offered the following resolutions:

Resolved, That we, citizens, lessees and property owners, have learned with surprise that it is seriously intended by our present Legislature at Albany to devote not only Broadway, but nearly every other avenue and street in the City of New-York to railroad uses, for the exclusive benefit of a few friends of certain members of the Legislature, and to the positive injury of the interests of owners of property on the streets affected.

Resolved, That if the traveling public demanded or required any greater facilities for travel than is now afforded by the different means of conveyance in use, they would have made known their wants either by petitions, meetings or otherwise; it is therefore, in our opinion, unnecessary, and highly improper for the Legislature of the State to undertake the supervision of our streets by establishing railroads in them, under the plea that the public require them, when in fact they have expressed no opinion on the subject.

Resolved, That the grant of a Broadway Railroad, in perpetuity, such as is contemplated by the bill now before the Senate, is a gift of immense value, and capable of being made to produce annually a sum sufficient to sensibly reduce the taxes of our present overburdened City. That, instead of bestowing it upon friends and favorites of certain legislators, it should be put up to competition, so that the fares may be diminished and the City taxes reduced.

Resolved, That we protest against the attempt on the part of the Legislature to deprive us of our rights, as property-owners, upon the streets of the City, without compensation, and that we will resist all such attempts, satisfied that the injustice of such a measure must excite us to relief in our tribunals of justice.

Mr. FARRAR, on taking the question, alluded to the removal of city railway tracks in London. The resolutions were unanimously adopted.

A resolution was then adopted appointing a Committee of twenty-four to carry out the objects of the meeting, and the Committee was appointed as follows: Ambrose C. Kingsland, John O. Green, Edwards Pierpont, Amos R. Eno, John J. Phelps, John Steward, Edward S. Jaffray, Wm. B. Appleton, Saml. Lord, Henry D. Aldrich, Elias S. Higgins, Eli White, Simon B. Chittenden, Edwin J. Brown, Albert Clark, Ogden Haggerty, Paul Spofford, Edwin Hoyt, Joseph Sampson, Benj. L. Swan, Lorillard Spencer, D. Henry Haight, Henry Ball, Charles L. Tiffany, Paran Stevens, Thomas Tileston, John K. Myers, Alexander T. Stewart, Wm. E. Dodge, George W. Pell, Halliburton Fales, James Gerhard, George Bliss, Thomas Suffern.

M. J. J. PHELPS offered a resolution returning the thanks of the citizens of New-York to those Senators who had opposed the scheme, and made some remarks in opposition to the scheme.

Mr. CHARLES ASTOR BESMER, on behalf of some 20,000 persons interested, took occasion to speak of the necessity of leaving open some avenue without a railroad, leading to the Central Park.

W. W. DURYEE made some energetic remarks on corrupt public officials.

Mr. JAMES KELLY spoke of the great public interest of preserving the beauty of Broadway, and gave an interesting history of the Broadway pavement, and its cost. He thought that many classes of our citizens, carmen, expressmen and others, using our great thoroughfares might be awakened to the interest of the matter, and the necessity of keeping Broadway sacred. (Applause.) He wanted to see a roaring meeting to awaken the public to the importance of the matter. (Applause.)

Mr. WM. GALE made remarks at similar purport, warmly indorsing the project of calling a large public meeting.

Mr. FARRAR's resolution was then adopted, as follows:

Resolved, That the thanks of this meeting be given to Senators GANSON, BELL, TOBY, FOLGER, TRUMAN, SMITH and others, who have so ably and hitherto so successfully opposed these schemes of plunder, and we rely upon them to continue their efforts.

Mr. JOHN MCKESSON, who represented in trust $1,500,000 of Broadway property, energetically opposed the scheme, and favored the project of showing up the names of those who were to get the grant, and those members who voted for it. He thought Mr. SEWARD ought to enlist the ladies in opposition to the measure. (Applause.)

At the suggestion of a gentleman in the audience, Mr. SEWARD read the bill—the obscure names of some of the grantees exciting considerable laughter. Mr. SEWARD stated that there was great difficulty in finding out who these men were, most of them. He had learned, however, that many of them were friends of Mr. GEORGE LAW.

The meeting empowered the Committee to add to its members, and to consider the propriety of calling another and larger gathering to further the desired object.

CORRECTION.—We have a letter from LUTHER G. THOMAS, Surgeon of the Twenty-sixth regiment New-Jersey Volunteers, denying the truth of a statement made by our Washington correspondent, that he had been tried by Court-martial on certain charges, and sentenced to be cashiered. His letter is accompanied by confirmatory statements by other officers of the regiment.

Mr. M. S. FRIEND has matured a system of business that will meet the approbation of parties desiring to purchase stores, wines, teas, cigars, or, in fact, anything necessary for family purposes.—Army and navy messes are supplied, shops and steamers furnished, and country merchants' orders filled with every article that may be desired, with promptness and fidelity. In his establishment, at No. 4 Doyers, is a reading-room with writing conveniences, and a journal, where will be found the name, residence and destination of naval and military gentlemen registered. Here a steward may leave his order in the morning, and on going aboard at night will find the articles he desires, in better quality and with more punctuality than it would have been possible for him to have procured himself. Mr. E. C. GENET, a gentleman long connected with the navy, will take supervision of the selecting and packing fresh goods as parties may order. We commend the attention of our readers to this new and novel enterprise.

prevent, relieve and cure the complaints most prevalent in this climate during the SPRING OF THE YEAR.

Their preventive operation is simple. Acting directly upon the stomach, and through the stomach upon the liver, the bowels, the circulation, and the nervous system, they impart to the whole organization a degree of vigor and elasticity which enables us to resist the unhealthy atmospheric influences, by which so many distressing maladies are produced and prolonged. The great predisposing cause of sickness is CONSTITUTIONAL and PHYSICAL DEBILITY. Disease, like a coward, generally assails the feeble, and turns aside from the strong. And this is especially true of the forms of disease which prevail at the breaking up of Winter. The first warm days of the Spring sun seem to thaw out from the frozen earth the elements of innumerable ailments. The miasma which the frost had hermetically sealed up, is let loose in clouds of vapor, and Fever and Ague, Bilious Remittent Fevers, Indigestion, Liver Complaint, Diphtheria, Rheumatism, Bilious Colic, Asthma, Coughs, Colds,
